Hi Sarah and Andy,

I wanted to give a quick update on how the meeting with EPA went last Thursday. First, Brian Schlieger has accepted a remedial position within EPA so Shelly Lam will be taking over the project. This is probably a good move since Shelly is located here in Indianapolis. We met with Speedway Water representatives to get a cost estimate and a timeframe for how long it will take to hook up the folks to municipal water from start to finish. Funding still isn't in place, but once it is, we want to work as quickly and efficiently as possible.

We also met with EPA's contractor, Weston, who is working on the hydrogeo report. He is going to get a draft to EPA next week so that the report can hopefully be finalized by the end of February. Once the report is finalized, EPA or IDEM will send you a copy probably via email.

We established February 24 as the next public meeting date. It will again be at the Thatcher Park community center at 6pm.

If you have any other questions, please let me know!

Erin

How'd the meeting with Weston go? Any chance we can see their report sometime soon?

Sarah

Hi Sarah and Andy,

Just a quick update regarding EPA's progress on the West Vermont Street area. EPA held another public meeting December 20 for the residents with drinking water wells. Brian Schleiger decided not to disseminate the July 2010 results since the report is not finalized yet. The meeting was more for the residents to ask any questions. There were several questions about when municipal water would be available for them. Apparently the grant that Brian was trying to secure isn't available since the impacted residents have treatment systems. If more wells begin to be impacted Brian will try to get the grant again.

Brian would like to hold another public meeting in February, although we haven't established a date yet. Brian and I are meeting with Speedway water representatives tomorrow to begin laying out the steps involved in hooking the folks up to municipal water. After the meeting we are also going to meet with EPA's Weston contractors to discuss the hydrogeo report and next steps to see who the responsible party might be.

I'll let you know how the meetings go tomorrow. Would you like to know when the next public meeting will be held? I noticed that Allison Transmission had their consultants at the December public meeting. Let me know!

Thanks,
